The In-Charges of BAFRA Dungkhag and Branch Offices

Subject: GM Rice surveillance report

Dear Colleagues,

As per section 14 of the Biosafety Act of Bhutan 2015, Bhutan Agriculture and Food Regulatory Authority (BAFRA) is designated as competent authority for the implementation of the Act and all other biosafety related activities in the Kingdom.

As such, Biosafety section at BAFRA Head office in collaboration with BAFRA field offices has carried our surveillance on genetically modified rice using rapid test kit. Rice is screened for possible GM rice content, because you all know that Bhutan import lot of rice for consumption. It is to note that draft report was circulated through your official emails before finalization, however if there is any comments you may submit to Biosafety focal officer.

This report is shared for your information, record and we appreciate your hard work.

Yours sincerely,

Dr. Chador Wangdi
Offtg. Director General

1. Background

Bhutan import huge amount of rice for consumption and it is possible that some viable rice seeds may be imported due to globalization of food import and export. Biosafety Act of Bhutan 2015 and its Rules and Regulations 2018 completely bans any activities involving Genetically Modified Organism (GMO) in viable forms. Any import of products derived from GMO needs to undergo rigorous risk assessment and need to be ultimately approved by the National Biosafety Board.

As per the desktop research, Liberty Link™ (LL) rice with event Name LLRICE601 and LLRICE62, which is genetically modified to withstand the herbicide Glufosinate is approved for cultivation or to be used as food in few countries as per the websites <http://www.isaaa.org-gmapprovaldatabase-event-default.asp?EventID=218> and <http://www.isaaa.org-gmapprovaldatabase-event-default.asp?EventID=217>. As such it is felt necessary to carry out surveillance on LL Rice in Bhutanese market to make technical and policy decisions as per the existing legislations. This GMO is developed by Bayer CropScience and transformed by using Agrobacterium tumefaciens (LLRICE601) and direct DNA transfer system (LLRICE62).

To carry out this activity, 1600 numbers of test kits were procured with funding support from EU-RDCCRP and distributed 50 numbers of test strips each to 32 BAFRA field offices (List attached). The test kits were purchased from Romer Labs Singapore Pte Ltd.

2. Objectives

The objective of this study is mainly to:

- ❖ Carry out surveillance on LLRice in Bhutanese markets

3. Materials and Methods

3.1. Study design

This survey was conducted in 32 different locations around the country with the help of BAFRA field officials.

3.2. Sample size and sampling method

Sample size was not estimated as this is a pilot survey. In addition the number of rice samples tested was determined based on the number of test kits distributed to respective BAFRA field offices. Information on test kits is as provided below in Table 1 and the details of test kits distributed to the respective BAFRA offices is as presented in Table 2.

3.3. Sample preparation and analysis protocol

Method of choice for detection of GMO is DNA based, however this technique entails involvement of lots of expensive consumables. As such it is always better first to carry out screening with the rapid test kits, which are basically targeted to the proteins expressed by the inserted DNA.

Different brands of rice available are collected by the field officials and analyzed with the kit as per the protocol provided by the supplier.

Sample Processing

1. Weigh sub-samples from each truck or container.
2. Place each sub-sample in a clean and dry grinder.
3. Grind the sample on high speed for 10 seconds.
4. Remove the container and transfer the ground rice on to paper and add the ground rice to a test tube (provided with the kit).
5. Add the volume of water ($\text{Sample Weight (g)} \times 2.0 = \text{Water Volume (ml)}$) to the ground rice in the tube, place a lid on the tube and shake the tube until all the ground rice is well wetted (about 10-20 sec.)

Test Procedure

1. Transfer some free liquid in the top of the tube with the help of transfer pipette into a sample tube
2. Place one AgraStrip® LL Bulk Grain Rice Strip Test-TraitChek Test Strip into the sample tube and let it sit for 5 minutes.
3. The appearance of one line (control) on the strip indicates a -ve result.
4. The appearance of two lines on the strip indicates a positive result.

3.4.1. How the strip works: Interpreting the Lateral Flow Strip Test

Check the test strips 5 minutes after inserting the strip. At least one line, the ‘Control Line’, should always develop approximately one (1) cm up from the bottom sample pad. A red line in this position indicates that the strip is functioning properly. A red line appearing below the ‘Control Line’ is the ‘LL Test Line’ and indicates a positive result for PAT protein. If the test strip displays two (2) red lines, the test is complete and the sample is positive for the LL trait.

If at 5 minutes the test strip only shows a clearly visible 'Control Line', then the sample is negative for the LL transgenic trait. If no control line develops, the result is inconclusive and needs to be repeated. It is clearly illustrated by figure 1.

Note: Test strip results should be interpreted after 5 minutes. Test strips interpreted after 30 minutes are invalid.

Respective BAFRA field offices were advised before hand to send the positive samples if any to National Food Testing Laboratory for further confirmation by using PCR technique.

4. Results and discussions

A total of 1594 samples were tested by 32 BAFRA field offices as mentioned in Table 3 and the details of samples tested by respective BAFRA offices are provided in Table 5 to 36 below.

5. Conclusion

In conclusion since the results from all BAFRA field offices showed negative for Phosphinothricin N-acetyltransferase (PAT) protein in all rice samples tested, it is inferred that there is no import or introduction particular transgenic rice into the Country.
